20 Years of experience

SAP has been around for many years. Not many consultants go back to R/2 days. Many improvements to the software has taken place, however users still complain about the user friendliness. There are ways to improve those screens. SAP does not make a big deal of it. We make a business of improving the user experience and the overall satisfaction with the application that the company spent millions implementing.

Consulting Services that pay off instantly

Overview

Companies using SAP does not always know what the software is capable of doing. The original partner and the people who designed the system are no longer there. The business has changed. Or other factors make it difficult to figure out, how to improve the usability of the system.

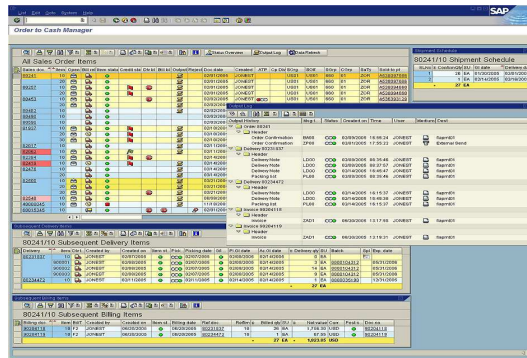

Hire an independent contractor who knows SAP across modules to conduct workshops with the business to document pain points and some potential solutions.

Many companies are hiring temporary staff to overcome fluctuations in the business environment, instead of looking to improve the way the system operates by utilizing some tools available by SAP and by third party applications.

Here is a contractor not hired by any company. Just providing objective views on how to run the business best using SAP.

Order to cash manager (OTCM)

Install OTCM and we can promise instant payback in customer service user efficiency. Users normally struggle to answer customer questions on the phone, e.g. pricing, availability, backorder info, tracking numbers, just to name some examples. They have to use multiple transactions and wait for the results, while entertaining the customer on the line. OTCM is one transaction and all the information the user needs is available. The transaction looks like a dashboard with icons easily flagging issues. Many companies rely on OTCM for Sales Reporting reducing the need for expensive BW reports.

This 3rd. Party application is worth its license fee. You will see immediate results from the install. Use it to automate data entry tasks, master data maintenance, retriggering idocs or maintenance of users. The list is as long as you have transactions in SAP. Companies can get a jump start utilizing their Winshuttle license by contracting with us. We will conduct the requirements gathering and provide the solution. Including training and documenting. Trust us we know you will be satisfied. If not - money back guarantee.
